

Phone list

If your layers are affected by disease, many phone calls are required. A lot must happen in a short period of time, often within only a few hours, while in most cases you are also forced to witness significant animal suffering. The situation is often extremely stressful. By preparing a phone list with important numbers, you save both work and worry. If an important person cannot be reached, you should prepare alternative phone numbers to call.

In the event of restrictions, all transports to and from the farm must be stopped immediately. Certain necessary transports may be allowed, but you must first apply for approval from the authorities. This also applies to transports for the farm's other activities. List all transports that regularly visit your farm in the phone list below, even if they only occur a couple of times per year. If they are on the list, it is easier to remember them if they are planned to visit you in the coming weeks while the farm is under restrictions.
